"Postcolonial Polysystems: The Production and Reception of Translated Children's Literature in South Africa" is an original and provocative contribution to the field of children's literature research and translation studies. It draws on a variety of methodologies to provide a perspective, both product- and process-oriented, on the ways in which translation contributes to the production of children's literature in South Africa, with a special interest in language and power, as well as post- and neocolonial hybridity. The book explores the forces that affect the use of translation in producing children's literature in various languages in South Africa, and shows how some of these forces precipitate in the selection, production and reception of translated children's books in Afrikaans and English. It breaks new ground in its interrogation of aspects of translation theory within the multilingual and postcolonial context of South Africa, as well as in its innovative experimental investigation of the reception of domesticating and foreignising strategies in translated picture books. The book has won the 2013 EST Young Scholar Prize."

The only book you'll need to ace your AQA GCSE English Language examWritten for anyone preparing for their AQA GCSE English Language exam, this book gets you right inside the head of the examiner so that every single thing you write gets a mark. You see, this exam is all about technique, and once you know the skills the examiner will mark you on, you can focus all your attention on the things that pile on the marks rather than wasting time on vague or irrelevant details. Learn how to:- Approach each of the Section A questions in the right way so that you get right down to the important stuff and spend as little time as possible on the questions that award the lowest marks;-

Understand the difference between each of the questions and what the examiner is looking for when they mark (aka assessment objectives);- Plan the longer questions so that your writing is tight and controlled and easy to read;- Think originally when writing for Section B, so that your creative responses aren't the same as everyone else's;- Write in such a way as to give yourself the best possible chance of a Grade 8 or 9. Darren Coxon has been teaching English for more than twenty years. In that time he estimates he's put at least 1,000 students through GCSE exams. He can count on the fingers of one hand the number who haven't obtained a Grade 5 or above (and that was always teaching in non-selective schools). He puts this success down to a unique method which he'll share with you inside these pages. By buying this book you'll also have access to the Examiner's Head Facebook community, for further support and guidance. So come with him on a journey inside the head of the examiner! He's with you all the way.

'Tried to picture myself in a shady second-rate college and realized that even thinking about it was difficult.' Arjun Singh is a typical South Delhi brat whose biggest worry is securing a much-coveted seat in one of the city's top colleges. But his ambitious plans come to a screeching halt when he scores a paltry '55' in English in the board exams. Unable to meet the cut-off, Arjun is forced to take admission in a neighbouring second-grade college. Between grappling with his identity as a Sikh and facing repeated misfortunes in love, Arjun's only solace is his three best friends from school who have also ended up in the same dump. What will happen to his future now? Witty, naughty, and plain irreverent, 55 is a delightful, mad caper about growing up and surviving three tumultuous years in the hallowed corridors of Delhi University.
